WEDNESDAY EVINING, OCT. 21 1896

NOT WHAT IT USED TO BE. We could see the pitcher very well, But not the man at the bat, Through the hole we found in the left field fence,

But we never minded that. A part we saw, and a part we heard, And as regards the rest We used the imagination heaven Has given to boys and guessed.

The sun beat hotly upon my neck, And I knelt in a posture there That would break my neck to attempt today, But of course I didn't care. There were two nen out; a runner at first: Score tied, and upon my ear There fell "Strike two!" from the umpire In tones like a foghorn clear.

Then a dandy drive that center muffed-

Then a dandy drive that center muffed—
The sun shone in his face—
And I asked my surging, chamorous heart,
"Will he try to make second base?"
I saw the fielder when he threw,
The hurtling ball descried,
And I heard the coacher hoarsely yell
To the runner there to slide.
And that was all I saw or heard.
I was swiftly lifted thence.
Another boy had claimed his turn
At the hole in the left field fence.

As I sit in the grand stand here today The conviction comes to me That the game as a whole is far from what

That the game as a whole is far from a life in the fragments used to be.

A stated sight by indulgence dulled Yearns for the continence

Compelled by circumstances like that Of the hole in the left field fence, —Detroit Tribune.

He is the young man who writes the newspaper advertisements for a large mercantile firm. He writes them well, too, and enjoys life, as is the privilege of a man who has successfully applied himself to his business. Among a number of friends with whom he was talking was one whose long acquaintance makes it possible for him to say things which would be resented from other people.

"It seems to me," remarked the friend, "that you are a very lucky person.

"Well," was the reply, "that is what the envious always say of a man who makes a success of literature. I have no doubt that remark has been made of nearly every man who has worked hard and finally prospered.'

"You seem to take a rather se rious view of your calling."

"I have to. It means shoes and neckties and house rent and three meals a day, and lots of other little things that make life pleasant.'

"Still, I don't think it is very much to be proud of."

"Perhaps not. I struggle with my self esteem every now and then.' "Well, this period of civilization has certainly produced strange demands." "That's it. There's the keynote of the whole situation. When I reflect that I am making a good living in an era when Shakespeare or Lord Byron would probably walk the streets in vain looking for a job, I tell you I can't help getting a little bit proud, and I might just as well

There are worse things than having one's feelings hurt, according to Uncle Pomp, an old darky who has lived in a New England household for nearly 40 years.

"Young Mr. Willums am all very well." remarked Uncle Pomp one day to a friend of the family, "but he don't compare wid old Mr. Willums, sah-don't compare wid him.'

"Why, it's strange you should feel that way, "said the visitor. "Young Mr. Williams seems to me much more careful of you in every way than his father."

"He am careful ob me, sah," responded Uncle Pomp, "he am careful, dat's a fac', but when old Mr. Willums he forgets hisself and treats me like I was a slave he's mighty sorry afterward, sah, and ebery time he gibs me a quarter. I'ze gettin to be a old man, sah, and dose quarters come in mighty handy. I can't afford to hab folks so mighty careful ob my feelings as young Mr. Willums, sah, and dat's de truf!"-Youth's Companion.

Last summer one of our grandchilden was sick v tha severe bowel trouble. Our doctor's: medies had failed, then we tried Chan . erlain's Colic, Cholera and diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief. We regard it as best medicine ever put on the market for bowel complaints .- Miss E G. Gregory, Frederickstown, Mo. This certainly is the best medicine ever put on the market for dysentery, summer complaint, colic and cholera infantum in children. It never fails to give prompt relief when used in reasonable time and the plain printed directions are followed. Many mothers have expressed their sincere gratitude for the cure it has effected.
